on President Cleveland. WASHINGTON, January 4th .- In the Senate to-day Sherman began his speech on the President's message at one o'clock. "The President of the United States," he said, "departing from the practices of his illustrious predecessors, dropped from his recent annual message all reference to the foreign relations of the country and interesting questions of national affairs, even omitting the usual recognition of the Supreme Ruler of the universe-postponing all things, celestial and terrestial, until the surplus revenue has been got rid of." Instead of it being a danger, it is an indication of the continuous increase of the domestic productions of the coun-try and its foreign and domestic commerce, and of a steady improvement commerce, and of a steady improvement of its financial condition. Large surpluses had frequently been dealt with wisely by Republican Administrations by the reduc-tion or repeal of taxes. Those simple remedies had been applied on mainly such articles as could not be produced here and did not come in competition with domestic industry. With that kind of "free" trade he was in hearty sympathy. The moder-ate protection given to ate protection given to

But, even if the argument were true, it would apply as well to all domestic products and to all manufactures. Wool was as completely the product of the farmer, as the coat was of the manufacturer, and as the coat was of the tailor, and the objection that the duty on wool raised the price to the consumer applied as well to the duty on cloth and on every article on the tailor. on cloth and on every article on the tariff

> CHEAP LABOR MEANS DEGRADATION. The all-sufficient answer was that duty encouraged the production of wool, the manufacture of cloth, and of an infinite valeavored to give a respectful answer to the President's message. He was willing to correct the irregularities of the tariff and o reduce the surplus-not by the vicious and undiscriminating process of a horizontal reduction, but by such methods as would relieve the tax-payer, without injury for a printed leave to depart shall be given, to the laborer or the great productive industries of the country. VOORHEES REPLIES.

Voorhees denounced the statements of Sherman and other Republicans as insincere and misleading, and asserted that be way of preparation for the coming Presi-dential election the Republican legislators were endeavoring to put the President and the Democratic party in an attitude of hos ility to American manufacturing interests Under the leadership of Cleveland the Democratic party demanded such a re vision of tariff, reduction of revenue and surplus, and such an administration of the owers of the Government as was most peneficial to all interests. The frosts o November would blight Republican mis representation and rebuke the Republican enators who characterized as a "humbug the fearless and statesmanlike message o the President. The subject of taxation was as old as the Government itself, and yet it was full of interest to day to the laboring masses. The contraction of the volume of currency had always been a policy marked by disaster and suffering, but when that abominable policy was further aided by snatching the money of the people from their hands at the rate of $10,000,000 a month, every honest mind had to revolt against such wanton robbery. And yet the Senator from Colo rado (Teller) had sneered at the idea of the Senator from Onio declared it was fortunate for the country that there was a surplus of $55,000,000 in the treasury. It would be for that Senator-if h should become the Republican candidate for the Presidency—to explain why it was fortunate that the people's money was gathered in the treasury to meet such wants of the Government. There was among Republican politicians a determined and brazen combination of mendacity of

THE PRESIDENT'S CONSISTENCY. The President had not departed from the claration of the Democratic platform on the subject. The declaration had been bold, explicit and peremptory. Incidental protection to home manufactures had always been the policy of the Democratic party. He rejoiced in every element of American success. He was proud of the inventive genius of the country, and its vast establishments where skilled labor abounded. He looked with delight on the cotton mills, the blast furnaces and rolling nills of the South as well as those of the

THE UNPROFITABLENESS OF STRIKES.

The National Bureau of Statistics has collected the statistics of strikes in the United States, and the report is by no means comforting in its showing. From 1880 to 1886 there were 3,903 recorded strikes. They involved 22,336 employing concerns and 1,318,624 employes. So that we have the startling fact that for each of the years the average of strikes was 650: of concerns involved, 3,761, and employes affected, 219,770. The average duration of stoppage on account of strikes was 23.1 equal to the work of one man, would employ him nearly 1,700 years, for 300 working estimate the loss to production accurately, but the bureau estimates that the loss to the real loss is the sum of both these items, or $82,548,811; because the employcalculation Mr. Commissioner Wright had cast materials, he might have given us an surplus. important and astounding figure. The theory is that materials were not affected by the strikes so far as loss was concerned. But is it not true that cessation of con sumption affects materials in their actual values independent of speculative influences? So that it is fair to accept the estimate of the Chicago Times that the loss by reason of the strikes in the six years was, at a moderate calculation, $100,000,000 So then the people of the country are poorer by $100,000,000 and the strikers are no richer. In some cases the strikers made gains by their procedure, but it is certain that these bear but a slight proportional relation to the aggregate loss It is thus shown that the strike means of settling labor issues is an exceedingly costly one, and is visited most heavily one-sixth of the losses to employes through lockout has proven profitable to the promoters. Both, unquestionably, in several instances, were the result of schemes to affect the markets, and provoked for the express purpose of enabling corners to be

Precisely what did the Pope mean when, in addressing a delegation from the that his grief at being deprived of his military forces was mitigated by the hope that he would soon be able to surround himself by them again, and that the inkstand and pen presented to him will be of use in signing the orders for the reorganization of the army? Did the Pope mean to be understood as confidently looking forward to restoration to temporal power? From this distance nothing is in view to give warrant for his hope. Italian unity appears to be better assured than ever before, and if there is any basis for the hope, it would seem to reside in some schemes and plots not yet known to the world. It does not seem possible that the Church walls .- S. F. Alta. anywhere can gain greater hold upon the State. On the contrary, the whole growth and drift of the age is more and more to wards complete and perpetual separation of ecclesiastical and of civil authority. Italy is now very strong; her people are contented with present rule; there is partial representation of them in the lawmaking branches of the Government; they have not at any time mourned over the decree that deprived the Pope of his temporal power. If, therefore, Leo entertains hope of its restoration, it must rest upon anticipated aid from without Italy. If he has been led to believe this will be given, and ready at his call, nothing can be more certain than his humiliating disappointment. If any courts of Europe have impressed him with the idea that they will aid him to regain his civil seat, they have, for ulterior purposes, been deceiving the

MR. EDWARD ATKINSON is a tireless wrecked and all her crew lost on the Irish searcher after facts discoverable statistic ally. In fact, we have no other American who has given us so many interesting truths that have been brought to light by statistics. His latest effort has been to ascertain if the Caucasian man is deteriorating in size, weight and physical strength. He finds that so far as the garments of men indicate size, Americans are proven to be steadily advancing. They take a larger chest and waist measure now than in the last generation. Even in the last decade, 1877 to 1887, the demand for large sizes in ready-made clothing has generally and greatly augmented. How far this may be due to the admixture of nationalities in America is not disclosed by his researches, nor can it be in the absence of the probably unattainable fact concerning the chest and waist measures of the CEREMONY OF RECEPTION. Four Young Ladies Take the White Veil in the St. Joseph's Convent.

Yesterday afternoon, at the convent o the Sisters of Mercy, in this city, four young ladies-Miss Lizzie King of Roseville, Miss Nellie Nolan of Oakland, and Misses Maggie Smith and Ellen McEnerny of Sacramento-received the white veil. and were admitted to sisterhood. The ceremonies were deeply impressive, and were conducted by Bishop Manogne, assisted by Fathers Grace and Haupts. The Bishop and a number of priests first came to the altar, which is in the largest room of the building, and after he had said some prayers and the choir had rendered some ons, the coming of the ladies was awaited. In a few moments the procession commenced. Four sisters, who had al ready taken the white veil, but not the black, led, followed by other black, led, followed by other sisters and the four young ladies. All held lighted candles in their hands. The four who were about to receive the veil took their stations at the altar in front of the Bishop, and one by one they were called up, made their vows and were blessed. They appeared much impressed by the ceremony, and many of the older sisters were visibly affected. The recipients were dressed in white and were covered by long white veils. These seemingly happy young ladies had already received the cap, at which time no ceremony of importance was performed, and at this time the white veils. In six months hence these sisters can receive the black veil, when an important ceremony is per-formed. If, before that time, they wish to withdraw from the sisterhood they can but once the black veil is taken there can be no withdrawal. There was a large number of persons present to witness the spec tacle, among whom were the following Fathers Grace and Haupt, of Sacramento McSweeney, of Oakland; Leo, of Boston Mass.; Coleman, of Woodland; Torney, o Auburn, Maloney, of Sutter; Lehe, of Locke ford; Scanlan, of San Francisco, and a few others. After the services Bishop Manogue delivered an instructive sermon, in which he said that these girls had done a most pleasing thing to God, and were on the

This shipment is the first citrus carload ever brought from Florida to California, and is a veritable instance of the old "saw" of "carrying coals to Newcastle." The Florida oranges are reputed to ripen somewhat earlier than even those grown in this section of California, but the difference is not much, if any. The Eastern markets depond with the content of the persistency of the numbers were doubled because of the persistency of the encores. The concert was one of high excellence. The fact probably is, that there is little or no difference in the time of ripening of oranges grown in Florida and those grown in Central and Northern California. And and, being several weeks in advance of the orange crop in Southern California coming into market, we shall ship our surplus, after supplying the coast, to the Eastern cities for the early trade.

In this regard, while the oranges and

The Camp Fund.

At a meeting of the officers of the First Artillery last Tuesday evening, the late camp question was discussed. It appears that the regiment is about $500 short, and is thinking that it will assess the dif-ferent companies to make good the defi-ciency. There has evidently been bad management somewhere. The regiment received $3,100 last year from the State to carry on the camp. This, together with $1,000 donated by the citizens of Santa Cruz, would be $4,100 to carry on the affair. The cost for transportation, for the round trip, per man, was $4 50, and, we believe $2 50 for the Cadets. At the camp preceding this the regiment paid $5 25 per man for mileage, though it did not carry as many men, but the increased rate and the fact that they had to pay for teaming (at the last camp the baggage was hauled by Government wagons tree of expense) would almost balance the matter. An assessment on the companies would go hard with

The amount of increase thus shown in a single month would, if extended throughout a year, at the same ratio, give an increase of 121,248 pieces of mail matter, a volume of business equal to the entire re-ceipts and deliveries of many good sized towns. General Seawell's condition is unchanged. His death is expected to occur at any time. He is still possessed of all his faculties, but is gradually losing all vitality.

The Pacific Improvement Company has been served by D. M. Delmas, attorney for claimants, with notices of suits brought by him on behalf of guests who lost property at the burning of Del Monte, over a year ago.

Thomas Adams, a waiter in the Southern Pacific Restaurant, near the California Market, was shot, and mortally wounded, at 1 o'clock yesterday morning, by Martin J. Galvin, a young man, who has recently been employed as messenger boy for the San Francisco District Telegraph Company. The trouble was jealousy about a woman. Adams died in the afternoon.

How Men Die.

If we know all the methods of approach adopted by an enemy we are the better enabled to ward off the danger and postpone the moment when surrender becomes inevitable. In many instances the inherent strength of the body suffices to enable it to oppose the tendency toward death. Many, however, have lost these forces to such an extent that there is little or no hole.

HONEY—Arrivals are very small, but this fact does not give the market any firmer tone, as prices have already touched a point at which it is not easy to secure general custom. Lower figures will be necessary to give the market any great activity. WHEAT—The wet weather of the past two days has necessarily tended to create an easier feeling, and temporarily check buying operations. Light offerings for some time have prevented any heavy purchasing, and it is not unlikely that the late storm may be the means of inducing owners to part with a portion at least of their holdings. For a day or two, however, there will probably be a lull in trade, until full knowledge is obtained of the extent of the rains. At the moment $1 37\% \mathbb{P} et l must be accepted as the top figure for standard shipping grades.

BARLEY—The market this morning held up better than most people expected, considering the good rain that occurred since the close of 'Change last Saturday. No feed of desirable quality could be bought under $87\% \mathbb{C} \mathbb{P} \mathbb{C} \mathbb{E} \mathbb{C} \mathbb{E} \mathbb{C} \mathbb{E} \mathbb{C} \mathbb{E} for small, 5c each for Kid. Good, clean skins should average 262½ hs each; badly damaged have no real value. Beaver Skins, $4@7 each for prime large, $264 for medlum, and $10c@$1 for small sizes, with inferior selling at a marked reduction; Wild Cat Skins, 15@60c apiece for prime and 5@25c for poor; Coon Skins, 5@10c each for small and large; 10@30c for Coyote Skins, 10@25c for small and 25@80c apiece for large. FRESH MEATS—Active trading prevailed in the several descriptions during the holiday sea-son, and the prospects are considered encour-aging for brisk business right slong. Following

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is a highly concentrated and powerful medicine. It is an anodyne expectorant, and, if promptly taken, in cases of Coughs, Throat or Lung troubles, soothes and heals the irritated tissues, and quickly allays all tendency to Consumption. Six years ago, I contracted a severe Cold, which settled on my Lungs, and soon developed all the alarming symptoms of Consumption. I had a Cough, Night Sweats, Bleedizz Lungs, Pain in my Chest and Sides, and was so commy Chest and Sides, and was so completely prostrated, as to be confined to my bed most of the time. After trying various prescriptions, without benefit, my physician finally determined to give me Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I took it, and the effect was magical. I seemed to rally from the first dose of this medicine, and, after using only three bottles, am now as well and sound as ever. am now as well and sound as ever. --Rodney Johnson, Springfield, Ill.
